FOREWORD

With this issue Our Colleges and Universities Today begins its thirteenth annual series of publications. The several publications are designed to provide statistical data and trends for all institutions of higher education in Pennsylvania. All institutions in the Commonwealth responded to the survey.

The data were obtained directly from the institutions on schedules either provided by the National Center for Education Statistics or prepared in the Division of Education Statistics. Appreciation is extended to the responsive and cooperative group of higher education officials who are assisting in the continuous development of the Department of Education's higher education data system.

Inquiries relative to these data should be directed to the Division of Education Statistics, Bureau of Information Systems, Department of Education, Box 911, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania 17126.

PART I

FALL ENROLLMENTS, 1975

After three years of only moderate growth, college enrollments for the fall of 1975 showed the largest numerical increase since 1967 and the largest percentage increase since 1969. This occurred in spite of many recent predictions of enrollment leveling and even possible decline. Many theories are available to help explain this phenomenon. Among these are the poor job market, the larger number of people in the traditional post-college age groups who are attending college on a part-time basis and the larger number of high school graduates. The graduating class of 1975 should prove to be the largest ever.[1]

Overall, the number of part-time students increased nearly 10 per cent, while the number of full-time students showed an increase of slightly less than four per cent. Nearly two-thirds of the increase in part-time study occurred in female enrollments. On the other hand, the full-time enrollment increase was divided between men and women on a more nearly equal basis (46.4 per cent men and 53.6 per cent women).

On a percentage basis, female enrollments increased nearly twice as much as male enrollments (7.4 per cent to 4.1 per cent), with the 25,356 increase including 14,840 women and 10,516 men.

The various levels of enrollment reflected a wide range of activity in relation to the 25,356 overall increase. The changes ranged from an 8,183 or 15.2 per cent increase at the graduate level (over 90 per cent of which was part-time) to a 22 or 0.1 per cent decrease in unclassified enrollments. Undergraduate enrollments increased nearly five per cent, while first-professional enrollments increased approximately two per cent.

[1] Projections--Selected Education Statistics for Pennsylvania to 1984-85, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Department of Education, Bureau of Information Systems, 1975.

The public sector of higher education (state-owned institutions, state-related commonwealth universities and community colleges) continued to gain a larger portion of students. This year's increase of 25,356 included 18,832 in public institutions and 6,524 in private institutions. This brings the public sector enrollments to 59.8 per cent of the total.

PART II

SUMMER SCHOOL ENROLLMENTS, 1975

During the summer of 1975, 175,453 students were enrolled in one or more summer sessions at 148 institutions of higher education. These students accounted for total registrations numbering 221,839 (where duplicate registrations were counted) and for a full-time equivalent enrollment of 37,852 (based on credit hours reported by the institutions).

Each of these figures is higher than that reported by 143 institutions in 1974, however, the activity reported by the five additional schools was very small and did not represent a large portion of any one of the increases. The gain reported for each of the three categories was 14,708 students, 20,269 registrations and 3,520 full-time equivalent students.

The most striking thing about this growth is that it occurred on the heels of a decline in all three categories from 1973 to 1974. Since 1973 these figures have shown an increase of 15,265 students, 23,739 registrations and 4,827 full-time equivalents.

b/ First-time freshmen are included in the count of undergraduate students.

c/ Includes third trimester enrollment.

d/ Includes fourth quarter enrollment.

PART III

FALL ENROLLMENTS IN THE UNITED STATES, 1972--1975

Higher education enrollments across the nation followed the same growth pattern that was evident in Pennsylvania. After increases of 4.3 per cent in 1973 and 6.5 per cent in 1974, enrollments nationwide increased 8.9 per cent. Increases in higher education enrollments in the United States have generally exceeded, on a percentage basis, those that occurred in Pennsylvania. The past three years were no exception. In those years, the growth in Pennsylvania's institutions amounted to 2.4, 1.5 and 5.6 per cents respectively.

Public institutions across the United States reported a total enrollment increase of 9.9 per cent, while private institution enrollments rose 5.5 per cent. These compare to 7.0 and 3.5 per cent increases, respectively, in Pennsylvania.
